Warrant out for homophobic attacker

Published Date: 01 December 2008

By Rob Middleton

A warrant has been issued for the arrest of a Polish man who carried out a homophobic attack in a Northampton.

Andrew Mazonjk, aged 26, failed to turn up at Northampton Crown Court to be sentenced for an assault committed with another un-named Polish man.

They were in Victoria Park in Semilong on June 27 when they attacked and assaulted a 21-year-old man.

Michael Ellis, prosecuting, asked Recorder Sam Mains to issue the arrest warrant when Mazonjk, of Aberdare Road, Spencer, failed to answer his bail on Friday.

He said: "This was a rather unpleasant homophobic attack in a park. The co-accused has already fled back to Poland."

Mazonjk is now at risk of a consecutive prison sentence of imprisonment in addition to anything imposed for the actual bodily harm offence which he admitted in the magistrates' court.

Victoria Park is in St James - isn't it? Not Semilong

On reflection..possibly unwise to release a Polish immigrant on bail ?

Dont be daft Desktop, they had to let him have bail to protect his human rights, dont forget the rights of offenders are more important than that of the victims.

Vicky park is definitely in St. James. Seems some reporters don't know the town very well.
